2024, THE REVELATION OF A YEAR

The Maily-Champagne vineyards are back to normal, after 10 days of harvesting for Maily Grand Cru.

The grapes are of excellent quality, with good degrees of ripeness. Quantities are low, as we expected, but this harvest augurs well for a highly promising 2024 vintage.

It's been a trying wine-growing year, with constant hard work and high standards since flowering in order to protect the vines from the particularly excessive rain this year.

We are immensely proud of our winegrowers, who have shown remarkable resilience throughout the year. Their commitment right up to the last day of the harvest meant that the grapes were harvested at their ideal ripeness.

95 YEARS OF SUCCESS THANKS TO YOU

Founded in 1929 by 24 winegrowers, they all had the same particularity: to have vines only on the Grand Cru that is Mailly-Champagne, in the north of the Montagne de Reims.

United and determined, they began to vinify, bottle and sell the first bottles, even digging themselves the cellars that still house the Mailly Grand Cru cuvées today.

95 years on, Mailly Grand Cru has grown while retaining its collective spirit, to highlight all the facets of its terroir and its 35 lieux-dits.

Thank you for being part of our adventure.

The future looks just as promising, with exciting and ambitious projects that we will be unveiling shortly.

A NEW PRESIDENT AT MAILLY GRAND CRU

Our new President,
succeeds Xavier MULLER (on the right).

A smooth and serene handover.

Stephane Remy, a native of Mailly-Champagne, has been a winegrower from father to son for 4 generations, with a great-grandfather among the founders of the Société de Producteurs de Mailly-Champagne.

He succeeds Xavier Muller, the emblematic President since 1997, who grew Mailly Grand Cru and contributed to the renown of Mailly-Champagne Grand Cru.
